

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody, without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Dr. H. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria. Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for children with good results." W. A. CHASE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments." E. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every case." Wm. J. McCrann, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine." N. B. Sizak, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Officers in the Pacific Mail liner Korea reported that the quarantine raised by Manila and other Far Eastern cities against Hongkong and Amoy has been revoked in view of the declaration that the plague epidemic is under better control. At the time the Korea departed from the China coast, health conditions were most favorable, plague and cholera having been practically eradicated. In view of that fact, Dr. Victor G. Heiser, chief quarantine officer of the Philippines addressed a circular to the owners, masters, and agents of vessels, and all others concerned, revoking the quarantine order against Hongkong and Amoy.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

No money can compensate for the loss of public records, valuable pictures, curios, or articles forming a collection.

The authorities responsible for museums, picture galleries, city buildings, school houses and other public buildings, should give increased attention to the danger they run of losing articles which it is impossible to replace. Chemical extinguishers and buckets are valuable appliances, provided a fire is immediately detected, but they are hopelessly inadequate once it has commenced to gain ground.

Automatic fire alarms should be installed in all public buildings, hospitals, infirmaries, school-houses, and all other public places where human beings are closely brought together, should be thoroughly equipped to combat the fire. The Denio system is the one best equipped to act for you.—advertisement.

JOHN BULL NOT SEEKING A WAR WITH GERMANY

Air John Bull of Kolumbia does not agree with the view that the people of Great Britain are "looking for a fight" with Germany, or in other words attempting to force Germany into a war.

"In my travels through Europe recently," said air Bull, "my impression was that the English, while by no means afraid, are not trying to force a fight. The following from some newspaper, I forget the name, I clipped because it expressed so well the situation as I had observed it in my tour."

BERLIN, July 23. A Berlin telegram to the Cologne Gazette expresses regret at the fact that certain German newspapers, without waiting for accurate information, attributed to Englishmen some part of the blame for the atrocities of Putumayo. It is noted that not a single Englishman was concerned in them, and that England has done the service of calling the attention of Europe to them. It must therefore "sincerely be regretted" that here and there in the German Press a note of hostility to the English was struck. At the same time the writer denies that "the German Press as such" is to blame and attacks "the people who eagerly snatch at such occasional errors in order to arouse in England the false appearance of a fundamental hostility on the part of German public opinion against England."

It is not a question of the state of German public opinion, but of the state of the German Press. There can be no doubt that the Press is saturated with ill-will against England, and the effect upon public opinion is much the same whether its most glaring "errors" are due to incompetence or to malice.

BOYCOTTING THE LINERS

BACOLOD, Philippine Islands.—At the recent wedding of Miss Legesma, the daughter of Mr. C. Legesma, a proposition was made that a large party of Negroes people attend the 1915 Fair at San Francisco. It is suggested that two hundred families donate P2,500 each with which to charter a ship and defray all expenses. Five hundred thousand pesos is a lot of money when a newspaper reporter hears it right quick, but these people really seem in earnest about the matter and their correspondence believes they mean it. It is already known that Sr. Antonio Lason and many others, have made arrangements to take the trip, and it is thought that but little difficulty will be experienced in raising enough money and a large enough crowd to make the matter feasible. These Negro people usually do what they start out to do, and the very boldness of the plan, coming as it does on top of the recent disaster, makes it all the more interesting.

BEATING THE MEAT TRUST

They have discovered a new way of beating out the "meat trust" in the "Far Awa Philippines."

The tall and commanding cocoanut is designed as the medium by which the householder might be able to save a small titling of the weekly or monthly wage.

The cocoanut groves that are about the first object to greet the visitor in nearing a Philippine port are to be made to yield up a product, which the enterprising Yankee on the mainland will convert into a substitute for lard. No longer need the great American hog be shorn of his protecting layers of fat to satisfy the demands of an exacting housewife for a satisfactory lubricant for the early morning hot cake griddle.

With the shakedown of a wholesome and enterprising group of Pacific Coast capitalists jingling in his jeans, L. Glass walked down the gang plank of the Tenyo Maru at Manila, in quest of all the cocoanut land that good, honest dollars will buy in the Philippine Islands. Mr. Glass is vice-president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, and holds the same office with the Philippine Islands Telephone and Telegraph Company. The capitalists who delegated him to buy land for cocoanut plantations here are all stockholders in these two companies, and personal friends of Mr. Glass.

"Cresco, one of the most important of cocoanut products is fast supplanting leaf lard in the United States," stated Mr. Glass when seen at the telephone company's office at Plaza Lawton, by a Bulletin man. "It has been found that cresco is far superior to leaf lard for all purposes, but so far only two manufacturers are making it in the United States, and they cannot nearly supply the constantly growing demand for it. It is with a view to manufacturing cresco, the California investors represented by me are desirous of obtaining land for cocoanut cultivation in the Philippines."

"An after a piece of public land my people wish to buy at least 2,500 acres, which is the maximum area the government can sell to any one company. Of course we want more than that if we can possibly get it."
